HOW TO PLAY

- Players sit in a circle.
- Each player gets a Worth a Hundred game board which they should place face up in front of them.
- Deal out all the photo cards between the players face down.
 - On the count of three, players may turn over their cards.
 - If they have cards that match their board, they should fill in these spots.
 - They should then discard the cards they don't want to their left and pick up the cards from the player to their right.
- Continue in this way until a player fills their whole board and puts their hand up in the air.
- The first player to put their hand up with a well-matched board (some photos will be open to interpretation!) is the winner.

LEARNING OBJECTIVE

By matching photos to the music terms, students will gain a greater understanding of the words and how they can be interpreted in their repertoire.

HOW TO ASSEMBLE

- Print out the game boards (pages 3–8).
- Print out the game cards (pages 9–13). Trim along the dotted lines.
- You may like to add velcro tabs to the backs of the cards and fronts of the boards. This is especially useful if you are laminating the game as otherwise the cards will be quite slippery.
